THE FINANCE COMMITTEE on Friday thanked 'the team' for the hard work involved in improving the heating system and the lights at St Augustine's. Thanks were also expressed to those who supported their fundraising events. There will be copies of the accounts of all three churches available soon.

However, the committee wants to bring to our attention that, after finishing all the works at St Augustine's and when the final bills are paid, the parish will have a debt of over £30,000. Unfortunately, some people who promised to donate substantial amounts towards the project have withdrawn their offer. It is crucial, therefore, that a Fundraising Committee be formed to make plans for the future. If you can offer any help and/or join this new Committee, please speak to a member of the clergy.

PLEASE PRAY

For those who are ill, especially: Pauline Adams, Janice Austin, Marjorie Birks, Mollie Blurton, Joan Brindley, Ruth Brock, Eamon Dooley, Leon Stefek, Margaret Stones, Doreen Thomson, Michele Yon, Fiona Borthwick, Beatrice Wright

SUNDAY MASS OBLIGATION – PART 2

Do you understand the Sunday Mass obligation? Do you know a Catholic who doesn't like to go to Mass? Do you understand why it is a mortal sin to miss Sunday Mass without grave reason?

The teaching of the Church has never changed. To get directly to the point, it is not optional. Faithful Catholics are obligated to attend Mass each and every Sunday.

But we should not view the word 'obligation' as a bad thing. Going to Mass is not a punishment, it's not a chore to get out of the way so you can go to the movies or out to brunch. The Mass is celebrated at Christ's instruction: "Do this in memory of Me". If we all take a moment to understand why participating in Holy Mass is so important, why skipping Holy Mass is a mortal sin, maybe 'obligation' will no longer seem like such an imposing word. Understanding why the Mass is so important is the first step to loving the Mass. And when you come to love the Mass, going to church on Sunday no longer feels like an "I have to", but instead becomes an "I need, I want to".

The Code of Canon Law, the legal code of Christ's Church, states:

On Sundays and other holy days of obligation, the faithful are obliged to assist at Mass. They are also to abstain from such work or business that would inhibit the worship to be given to God, the joy proper to the Lord's Day, or the due relaxation of mind and body.

The obligation of assisting at Mass is satisfied wherever Mass is celebrated in a Catholic rite either on a holy day itself or on the evening of the previous day. (Can 1247, 1248)

Both the code of "Canon Law" and the "Catechism" clearly state the obligation. There was some general teaching prior to Vatican II that one had to be present for the offertory through reception of Holy Communion to fulfil the obligation. However, this is not a part of the canon and the faithful are to participate in the complete Mass in order to fulfil the Sunday obligation.

Some consider the formal language of the "Catechism" and "Canon Law" to be somewhat inaccessible, or others may read the "Catechism" and rebuke what is said simply because they think there are "too many rules". Of course, rules are in place for a reason – even when it comes to driving, where the seemingly mundane rule of staying inside the painted lines has an enormous effect. So we can easily acknowledge that the rules about something so much more important – our faith – were not thrown together randomly, but have great meaning. Beyond the precept itself, we can also look at why it is so critical, and better understand the importance of participating in Mass every Sunday.

It is important to note that one's will is also factor here. The Church acknowledges a difference between missing Mass for a grave reason or for something over which you had no control, and the act of wilfully choosing not to go to Mass. The former is not a mortal sin, the latter is. In the Apostolic letter Dies Domini, Pope John Paul II instructed those who are prevented from participating in the Mass in the following way:

Finally, the faithful who, because of sickness, disability or some other serious cause, are prevented from taking part, should as best they can unite themselves with the celebration of Sunday Mass from afar, preferably by means of the readings and prayers for that day from the Missal, as well as through their desire for the Eucharist (Dies Domini, Pope John Paul II).
